EARLY HISTORY OF CENTRE COUNTY AND ACCOUNTS OF SOME OF ITS REVOLUTIONARY MEN

-----oOo-----

Turning back 160 or 175 years ago we see our beautiful country - then a wilderness. The mountains, wooded valleys and many streams make this country a most favorite spot for the Indians, for hunting, fishing and fighting constituted the nature of the Indians daily duties. The only work done by the Indian fell to the lot of the uncomplaining Squaw. When the Indians inhabited this country, the surface of the ground was scarcely disturbed. The first settlers had many, many hardships, and their interests were all the same. They shared each other's burdens and pleasures, they wept and rejoiced together.

We know that nature has been accused of partiality in her distribution of her favors. She has been charged with scattering them with a lavished hand in some places and withholding them in other places. Be this true or not, we do know that Centre County has received a full share of her richest bounties, and man has employed his skill and energy in appropriating her favors to his own use. The forest he manufactured in lumber, the minerals found in the ground he made to serve important purposes. The rocks and stones he used to make roads and build buildings. The streams he used for water power. He built railroads, and highways leading in every direction. He cleared and cultivated the soil. He built buildings for religious and educational purposes, built towns and villages on every hand. In fact where the Red Man once roamed in fearless freedom and whooped in barbaric revelery, there has been planted a progressive and enduring civilization.

The first settlers lived in almost continual fear of the Indians, and at times the danger was so imminent that the people had to appeal to general authorities for protection, and they built forts and block houses trying in every way to be protected from the Indians. There was one Indian Chief "Logan", a son of the celebrated Chief Shikellimy, who dwelt at Shamokin and was converted to the Christian religion by the Moravian missionaries. He had his son baptized - Logan in honor of James Logan who was then secretary of the Providence of Pennsylvania.

Chief Logan first built his wigwam a few miles above Lewistown, afterwards known as Logan's Spring. Logan was truly a friend of the white man - and the name Logan has been applied to the spring in Mifflin County; to a township and a village in Clinton County; to a gap in Nittany Mountain, through which he once had a path, and to a spring, a branch of Spring Creek in Centre County.

"Logan" being a friend of the white man was proven many times. Once when he heard Mrs. Brown, wife of Judge Brown, say she could not get shoes for her little girl, Logan made her a lovely pair of Indian moccasins. This little girl was afterwards the wife of Gen. Potter. Logan left Kishacoquillas Valley 1771 because of the scarcety of game and went out into Ohio, and during the Shawnee War in Ohio, 1773, his family was massacred and his cabin burned - and his heart was broken - and his vengence was terrible - and he joined the Shawnees in war on the whites and it is said he was murdered in 1781.

"Bald Eagle" was another Centre County Indian Chief. Governor Packer wrote of him: "Previous to the Treaty of Fort Stanwix, by which the title to the Indian lands on the South and West side of the West Branch was extinguished, embracing Bald Eagle Valley, a celebrated warrior of one of the tribes of the Six Nations named "Bald Eagle" had his wigwam and his home on the banks of the stream of that name, near where Milesburg now stands in Centre County, in the midst of an Indian village which was called Bald Eagle's Nest. He was a noted chieftain known over the whole country wherever the tribes of the Six Nations made their appearance, and took an active and bloody part in the Indian warfare against the white settlers along the valley of the West Branch during our Revolutions. He acted just like the bird whose name he assumed, he, with his band of savage followers swooped down upon the defenseless inhabitants and spared neither age nor sex.

Bald Eagle belonged to the Seneca tribe. He led the Seneca savages in 1778 that murdered James Brady, son of Capt. John Brady, down where Williamsport now stands. He was wounded with a spear, tomahawked and scalped - but young Brady lived long enough to describe the horrible scene. Years later when the Senecas were marching along the Allegheny River on their way to Bald Eagle Nest, Captain Samuel Brady recognized the Bald Eagle and fired at him. When the battle was over he searched for the body and found that a ball had pierced his heart.

There is nothing on record that shows that Bald Eagle was anything but an enemy to the whites - but we know the whites honored him and perpetuated his name by conferring it to an extensive valley, a beautiful stream, and a great range of mountains.

It is not known when the first actual settlement was made in Centre County, but we know it was previous to the Revolutionary War. Andrew Boggs erected a cabin on the left bank of Bald Eagle Creek - opposite an old Indian village on the flats near where Milesburg is now situated, about 1768.

Then Daniel and Jonas Davis settled a few years after Mr. Boggs, a little further down the creek. There was a block house at Mr. Davis' place, and a garrison was stationed there for a while in 1777.

May 8, 1778. The Indians killed a soldier on the Bald Eagle settlement. His name was Simon Vaugh - a private of Capt. Bell's Company. He was killed at the house of James Davis who lived just a short distance from Andrew Boggs at Milesburg. When Robert Moore who was an express rider of Revolutionary times and whose grave we mark in the Branch Cemetery was taking the news of Vaugh's death, he stopped at the Standiford house to feed his horse and found Standiford dead, who with his wife and daughter were killed and scalped, and his son, a lad of 10 - 11 years, missing. This happened on the Ephram Keller farm three miles west of Potter's Fort - and Henry Keller, a Revolutionary Soldier, whose grave we mark in the Boalsburg Cemetery, helped to bury this Standiford family in a corner of the field where their graves still remain.

Soon after the Stanwix Treaty in 1768, James Potter - afterwards a Brigadier General under Washington, came up the West Branch of the Susquehanna River and up Bald Eagle Creek to seek for choice lands. Crossing Nittany Mountain at Logan Gap (Hecla Gap) he saw lovely Penn's Valley - afterwards his happy home.

General James Potter, Early History of Penn's Valley, the Upper and Lower Forts and Colonel James Dunlop

"Capt. James Potter was a man of strong and penetrating mind, and one to whom early habits rendered a life of peril, toil and enterprise, familiar. Nature had given him a powerful and athletic frame of body, with a mind which might well give tone to a herculean frame. As an officer of the British Provincial Army, engaged in the defense of the frontier, he conceived the natural idea that, inclosed by the range of mountains which on every side meet his view on his return from Kittanning, there must be a fine country. After being ordered to Fort Augusta, his idea of a fine country to be discovered again returned to him. Having obtained leave of absence, he set off with one attendant in the summer of the year 1764. Passing up the West Branch, he reached the mouth of Bald Eagle Creek, a distance of seventy-five miles. Then passing up Bald Eagle Creek to the place where Spring Creek enters it, a distance of thirty miles, they took to the moutains and, having reached the top of Nittany Mountain, Capt. Potter, seeing the prairies and the noble forest beneath him cried out to his attendant, 'By heavens, Thompson, I have discovered an empire'! Immediately descending into the plain they came to a spring, at a place which was, in after-days, of some distinction, now known by the appellation of "Old Fort", owned by Capt. Potter's grandson.

Here the adventurers found themselves out of provisions and for two days and as many nights the flesh scraped from a dried beaver's skin was their only substance. With starvation staring them in the face Capt. Potter determined on striking through the mountains for Fort Augusta, and by good fortune happened on a creek, to which they gave the name of John Penn's Creek, little dreaming it was the same creek which entered the Susquehanna at the Isle of Que, known as Penn's Creek. Pursuing the stream they arrived where provisions could be had and finally reached Fort Augusta. Capt. Potter and his companion communicated their discovery, and it so happened that an Indian, Job Chilloway, was at the fort on their arrival. Learning that they had been in the valley, and determining that if it must be lost to the Indians he at least would profit by their loss. He goes to Col. Hunter and sells to him the right of discovery. Col. Hunter makes speed to Philadelphia and sells his right to Reuben Haines. In the meantime, Capt. Potter hurries to Philadelphia to make application and procure warrants".

History of e County

The foregoing narrative found in Capter IV of Linn's History of Centre County, Penna., is quoted from a paper discovered among the Potter papers in 1882 and apparently, from certain references in it, written before 1826. It tells the tradition of the first entry of the white man into Penn's Valley. Tradition, also, has it that Haines and Potter compromised, Haines taking the eastern end of Penn's Valley up to Spring Mills and Potter from there up.

Mr. Linn remarks that he is satisfied Potter's discovery of Penn's Valley was made in 1759, just after the purchase of 1758 or at least before 1764. This is shown by the fact the warrant of reservation of the manor of Nottingham, west of the fort, is dated December 16, 1763, and it is accurately described as near the Indian path from the head of Penn's Creek to old Frankstown.

Gen. James Potter was born on the bank of the river Foyle, Tyrone, Ireland, in 1729. He was twelve years old when his parents "aboard the good ship 'Dunnegal' " landed at New Castle, Delaware, in 1741. Early in life he showed a military spirit and soon became conspicuous in Indian warfare. From the time of his commission in 1756 as ensign to serve in a company of which his father was captain, in Lieut. - Col. John Armstrong's battalion, James Potter rapidly advanced to positions of responsibility and on October 2, 1764 was commandant of three companies on the Northern Frontiers.

He was a prominent figure in Northumberland and Union Counties from 1768 to 1774 and in the spring of that year he removed to Penn's Valley.

"According to the statement of Hero Wade, his army servant, who died in 1842, Capt. Potter made his first improvement at the spring, a little north of where the 'Old Fort' Hotel now stands on the turn-pike in Potter Township, where he built a log house, which was fortified in 1777 and known as the Upper Fort in Penn's Valley" - Linn's History of Centre County - P.402.

As I am trying to leave pictures of men and the early life of this part of Penna. from contemporary records of those times and not lists of dates, etc., I shall not go into Gen. Potter's record of service during the Revolutionary War. Any one can read it in detail in Linn's History of Centre County on P. 403. Suffice it to say that he was elected a member of the Constitutional Convention in July, 1776, that he commanded a battalion of Northumberland County Militia at Trenton and Princeton and was appointed, in April, 1777, third brigadier-general of his brigade at Brandywine and Germantown. He served with great ability on the outposts of Washington's army at Valley Forge and, by special request of the State Council, remained in the field during that winter. There are several letters of commendation from Gen. Washington to Gen. Potter in the possession of his descendants. One of these, his great, great, great, grandson, James Potter Curtin, of Bellefonte, Pa., owns at present. On January 9, 1778 he obtained leave of absence because of his wife's illness.

Gen. Potter's first wife was Elizabeth Cathcart who died in Franklin County near Greencastle, leaving two children - John, who died at Middle Creek, at about eighteen years of age and Elizabeth C., who married Hon. James Poe, of Franklin County.

Gen. Potter's second wife was Mary Chambers, a widow, the daughter of James and Mary Patterson, of Fermenagh Township, now Juniata County. She died in Penn's Valley in 1791 or 1792 and is buried in Cedar Creek grave yard, near Linden Hall. There were four children of this marriage: James, born in 1767, Martha, Mary and Margaret.

In the summer of 1778 Gen. Potter was in Penn's Valley assisting to repel the attacks of the Indians in the Valley.

"On the seventeenth day of May he writes from the "Upper Fort" "Our savage enemy continue to murder, scalp and capture. If there is not something done the country will be entirely given up to the savages. We have two forts in this valley, and are determined to stand as long as we are supported. The bearer, Maj. Miles, goes to apply for men to relieve Capt. Bell", etc. - June seventeenth, Gen. Potter writes that Capt. Pealer's men in Nittany Valley had discovered the tracks of about thirty Indians leading down Logan's Gap, and a woman and two children were missing at the head of the Kishacoquillas Valley, and one man wounded". P.20 - Linn's History of Centre County. A panic seemed to pervade the country and the inhabitants were all gathered in one place in Potter Township.

In July of 1778 most of them went from the county over the mountains to Cumberland County, but many soon came back and contemporary documents show they maintained their settlement during the winter of 1778.

A quotation from one of these printed in Linn's History is of interest to us because of its connection with "Old Fort" - I have copied it - "On the twelfth of July, Col. Brodhead's regiment. on it's way to Fort Pitt, was ordered to the West Branch; part of Col. Hartley's regiment was on it's way to Sunbury and the militia were ordered up from Lancaster and Berks, and the people came back to reap their crops. July twenty-fourth, Col. Brodhead, then at Muncy, detached a captain and twenty-four men into Penn's Valley to protect the reapers at Gen. Potter's place. Gen. Potter writes from Penn's Valley, on the twenty-fifth that the inhabitants of the valley are returned, and were cutting their grain. (He left Sunbury last Sunday afternoon and the people were returning to all parts of the County). Yesterday two men of Capt. Finley's company, of Col. Brodhead's regiment, went out from this place on the plains a little below my fields, and met a party of Indians, five in number, whom they engaged. One of the soldiers, Thomas Van Doran, was shot dead; the other, Jacob Shedacre, ran about four hundred yars, and was pursued by one of the Indians. They attacked each other with their knives and our excellent soldier killed his antagonist. His fate was hard for another Indian came up and shot him. He and the Indian lay within a perch of each other. The two soldiers served with Col. Morgan in the last campaign. James Alexander, who in after years farmed the 'Old Fort' farms, casually kicked up a hunting knife, so rusted as to indicate that it might have belonged either to the Indian or the soldier killed. Two stones were put up to mark the spot on William Henning's place, one mile east of 'Old Fort' Hotel".

In June 1898, the Bellefonte Chapter, D. A. R. erected a monument with a bronze memorial tablet to mark the site of the Upper or Old Fort.

Inscription on the bronze tablet erected on a large granite boulder in Brown's Mill graveyard, Antrim Township, Franklin County, Pa.

"Erected by the Franklin County Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and the Kittochtinny Historical Society.

This memorial is in commemoration of the services of Revolutionary Soldiers buried in Brown's Mill graveyard, Antrim Township, Franklin County, Pa., and is dedicated in grateful recognition of their patriotism, valor and fidelity".

During the hard winter of 1779 the country was entirely abandoned and until1784 it's history is a blank. The assessment of December 4, 1784 shows many returned to their old settlements as well as some new comers.

Gen. Potter was elected a member of the Supreme Executive Council in 1780 and the next year was elected Vice-president of the State.

In 1784, on the death of Samuel Hunter, Gen. James Potter was elected in his place on the Council of Censors and took his seat on July 7, 1784.

In 1788 Gen. Potter turned his attention to improvements in Penn's Valley and erected the first house at Potter's Bank. The merchant-mill and saw-mill were also erected by him, but were not fully completed at the time of his death in 1789.

He was injured in assisting in raising a barn on a farm about two miles east of the "Old Fort" on the south side of the highway some time during the Fall. Desiring better medical care than could be had in the Valley, he was placed on a cot in a wagon and taken to Franklin County to consult Dr. McClellan. He died there late in November at sixty years of age.

His will was probated at Lewistown on the nineteenth of December, 1789. It's interesting and you can read about it on P. 25 and 26 in Linn's History of Centre County. I quote the following from this History - "The provision (of the will) for marking his own grave was also neglected, and no one today can point out the grave of this brave Revolutionary general among those of the slumberers in Browns Mill graveyard in Franklin County".

Through information secured by Miss Verna Ardery of Bellefonte, Pa., and given to me, I am glad to add the following data concerning a marker erected, in Browns Mill Graveyard, Franklin County, Penna., to Revolutionary soldiers buried in that vicinity among whom is General James Potter's name.

The Hon. John B. Linn says of Gen. Potter:- "Gen. Potter was a stout, broad-shouldered, plucky, active man, five feet, nine inches in height, of dark complexion. He had a hopeful disposition, which no troubles could conquer. In a letter dated May 28, 1781, he says, 'Look where you will, our unfortunate country is disturbed: but the time will come when we shall get rid of all these troubles'. He was one who had no advantages of education, but his judgment and energy overcame that want".

I add what Dr. Thomas Van Tries says of Gen. Potter:- "His record for patriotism and value is peerless and unimpeachable. As a statesman he filled with honor and distinction nearly every official position within the gift of the state".

A few excerpts from the diary of Rev. Philip V. Fithiam, a Presbyterian minister, who came to Bald Eagle and Penn's Valley in 1775, as a supply, add other pictures to those we already have of Gen. Potter and early Centre County. Mr. Fithian describes his eighteen mile ride from Andrew Boggs to Capt. James Potter's - "through wild barren woods without any trace of an habitation or road other than the blind unfrequented path which I tracked at times with much difficulty. Two or three forsaken Indian camps indeed I saw on the creek bank, and a little before sunset I arrived at Capt. James Potter's, at the head of Penn's Valley". (He had left Bald Eagle at ten o'clock in the morning).

"Wednesday, August second - An elegant supper, a neat house, all expressions of welcome, not a flea, not a clinch, as I know of, within eighteen miles, so that this morning, by God's mercy, I rise, in part recruited from the ruins of many days' distress. Capt. Potter took me walking over his farm. He owns here many thousand acres of fine land".

"Saturday, August fifth - Cloudy and dull. It is muster-day, the captain goes off early. I am not pleased with the captain's plan of farming. He has too extreme a scope of business. Four men servants, two boys, more than two hundred acres of land cleared, much more now cutting down; two ploughs going in a tough rye stubble, one pair of exen in one and two horses in the other; both too weak. A large field of oats is ripe. Some flax is too ripe, and not yet pulled. But it is difficult to be nice in so rough a country".

On Sunday there was a violent storm and at one o'clock Mr. Fithian tells us he began service in Capt. Potter's house - only eight men and no women, beside the family were there. He preached two sermons with only a ten minute intermission. He writes, "My little audience heard with eagerness. Capt. Potter tells me there are only twenty-eight families in the valley. Of these twenty-two are subscribers and they have raised forty pounds in subscriptions as a fund to pay supplies. I am the second preacher who has been in the valley. Mr. Linn was here two Sabbaths past, first of all, and I, by regular appointment, next. It rained without intermission all day".

He was paid one pound, five shillings for his supply and set off with his companion, a Thomas Thompson, over the Seven Mountains to his next appointment in the Kishacoquillas Valley.

We are indebted to Mrs. Olewine, the late Historian of our Chapter, for the following data on the Lower Fort Marker.

Exact spacing of lines in inscription on Lower Fort Marker

"1 1/4 miles S. E. of this spot stood the Lower Fort used for defense against Indians in Penn's Valley. Several persons killed defending the Fort are buried in this cemetery".

Lower Fort

in Penn's Valley, 3 miles southeast of Aaronsburg on the old Adam Stover Farm. Marker is in Wolf's Chapel Cemetery.

Inscription

"1 1/4 miles S. E. of this spot stood the Lower Fort used for defense against Indians in Penn's Valley. Several persons killed defending the Fort are buried in this cemetery."

Marker erected in 1921 and dedicated on Constitution Day (Sept. 17, 1921)

er Fort

Early in the year 1921 a Rev. John F. Weaver of Everett, Penna. made an appeal through the County papers for the proper recognition of the Lower Fort - an historical spot in lower Penn's Valley that had long since been effaced by time. At once Col. Shoemaker and the Bellefonte Chapter, D. A. R. became interested in the project. Col. Shoemaker presented a marker - a mountain boulder - and the Daughters of the American Revolution had it prepared and placed on a foundation in Wolf's Chapel Cemetery below Aaronsburg, along Highway 45, near Woodward. On September 17, 1921 - Constitution Day - this marker was dedicated. A most fitting time to commemorate such an historic spot. The tablet or the marker bears the following inscription:

iption on wer Fort Bronze blet on Marker

"One and one-fourth miles southeast of this spot on the Adam Stover farm stood the "Lower Fort" of Penn's Valley, erected about 1776 for defense against the Indians. Several of the defenders and their families are buried in this cemetery". Erected by Bellefonte Chapter, D. A. R. and Col. Henry Shoemaker, 1921.

Tradition states that there was quite a battle between the Indians and the occupants of this Lower Fort and now, in Wolf's Chapel Cemetery we see a row of graves marking the resting place of those who fell.

On Memorial Day a chapter of the Sons of the Revolution in Philadelphia send flags for these graves and our chapter places Betsy Ross flags on them too. You would all find this an interesting cemetery to visit.

In conclusion we turn to Col. Dunlop, a Revolutionary hero, who, also, came from Ireland and who greatly influenced our County history.

The Dunlop family were Scotch-Irish, having come from "Dunlop Parish", Ayrshire, Scotland, to the north of Ireland. James Dunlop's grandfather, John Dunlop, was a Presbyterian minister in County Donegal and his father, William, was a Ruling Elder in the Presbytery of Tyrone, Ireland. With his parents (William and Deborah Dunlop) James and his three brothers and sisters came to this country prior to 1730.

nsl James Dunlop - 1821

As early as 1751 he was a resident of Hopewell Township in Cumberland County, where he practiced law and was engaged in the manufacture of iron at "Dunlop Furnaces" in Path Valley, now Franklin County, until Congress passed an act authorizing a battalion for immediate service to be raised in Cumberland County (January 1776) when "he devoted his energies to raising and equipping of the regiment which was afterwards known as 'the Sixth Pennsylvania of the Continental Line', and was on the tenth day of January, 1776, commissioned its Major". His battalion served under Col. William Irvine in the campaign of that year in Canada.

Noix

He saw service at Isle aux Foix, Isle La Motte, Ticonderoga and Crown Point during that year of 1776.

Miss Kate Dunlop Shugert, a descendant, tells me that "family tradition recounts many hardships endured by his family and himself. Narrow escapes, thrilling adventures, fleeing to forts to avoid capture by the Indiana. He, himself, was captured twice.

I omit a recitation of his military promotions. They can be found on P. 189 of Linn's History of Centre County or other historical records. He resigned from the army in 1777. That he was an able and valuable man in the early struggling years of our country is shown by his appointment as Lieutenant of Cumberland County in 1779. In 1784, he was commissioned a justice of the Common Pleas.

In the year 1796 he came to the Bald Eagle Township of that time and bought a part of the Griffith Gibbon tract, on which he and his son-in-law, James Harris, Esq. laid out the town of Bellefonte. Col. Dunlop erected the first house on the lot on the northeast corner of Spring and High Streets and was the first actual resident of the new town.

Col. Dunlop married Jane Boggs (a sister of John) and they had ten children:- Andrew, John, James, Joseph, Ann, Jane, Elizabeth, Deborah, Rebecca and Mary. He died in Bellefonte on December 15, 1821 at the age of 94 and is buried in the Union Cemetery. On Memorial Day our Chapter places a Betsy Ross Flag on his grave, in appropriate recognition of a Revolutionary soldier who was also one of the founders of Bellefonte.

Descendants of both Gen. Potter and Col. Dunlop are members of Bellefonte Chapter.

Thanks are due Mrs. Laird Curtin and Miss Kate Dunlop Shugert for material about Gen. Potter and Col. Dunlop additional to that in the "History of Centre and Clinton Counties", by John Blair Linn.

GENERAL PHILIP BENNER

General Benner was one of the earliest and prominent citizens of our County. He was born in Chester County, 1762. (His father was an active Whig during the Revolution). When Philip was a very young man he joined the Army. His mother quilted some money in the back of his vest as a provision for his necessities if he was captured.

After the Revolution, General Benner was engaged in the iron business in Chester County. He married Ruth Roberts, and May 3, 1792 he purchased Rock Forge lands from Josiah Matlock, and moved to Spring Creek to engage in iron business. He brought workmen with him from Chester County, built a house and sawmill, and 1794 he erected his first forge in Centre County, and made iron the same year. He had to pack provisions from the eastern counties of Pennsylvania through the woods to supply 93 people - soon he erected a grist mill to make flour, a splitting mill, a nail mill, forge and afterwards a furnace.

He had an iron trade with Pittsburgh, packing iron on horses and taking it to Pittsburgh. He was attentive to every detail of his work. Like Napoleon, he always examined his horses' feet to see if they were well shod, and every teamster had a hammer, extra horse shoe nails, etc., in case of emergency along the road. He had four and six horse teams constantly hauling to Pittsburgh and Bald Eagle Creek.

Once a teamster applied to the General for work. He said, "Well, did you ever upset your wagon?" He replied, "Oh, No sir! I'm too good a drive for that." "Well, then" said the General, "I do not think you will do, for you wouldn't know what to do if you did upset; and no one can drive from Rock to Pittsburgh without upsetting. No, you won't do at all."

General Benner built many houses, and accumulated a vast amount of real estate, but had many, many losses. He was a Democrat, and was twice a presidential elector. He was a relative of General Anthony Wayne, and was under his command during the Revolution.

His wife died 1827, age 62, and he died July 27, 1832. He was buried on his own farm, which is now owned by the Penitentiary, and has been put in splendid condition. Each year Professor Rhodes takes Mrs. Rhodes and I to place a Betsy Ross flag on his grave, and each time we read over again the lovely epitaph -

General Philip Benner, died July 27, 1832, age 72 yrs.
One of the first Iron Masters in Western Pennsylvania,
An affectionate Husband, Indulgent Father, an Enterprising citizen, and a kind Neighbor.

General Benner was an ancestor of two of our late D. A. R. members, Miss Sara Benner and Mrs. Yeager.

GENERAL JOHN PATTON

General John Patton was born in Sligo, Iceland, 1745, and came to America 1761, and settled in Philadelphia where he was engaged in the mercantile business. He was a member of the City Committee of Inspection - August 1775.

He was appointed a major of Col. Samuel Miles, Second Battalion Pennsylvania Rifle Regiment March 13, 1776. Appointed Major of 9thPennsylvania Regiment October 25, 1776. On January 11, 1777 he was promoted to Colonel of one of the sixteen additional Regiments of General Washington.

He was a member of the Philadelphia Lighthorse, and made a member of General Washington's Body Guard 1st. Regt. July 27, 1777. He resigned from the army November, 1777, and was employed to furnish flour for the army. In 1780 he gave 2000 £ to a bank in Philadelphia which was organized for army needs. The patriotic merchants of Philadelphia gave personal bonds to the amount of 260,000 £ which undoubtedly saved the Continental Army.

In 1791 he was made Brigadier General of the State Militia.

In 1792 he and his friend, Col. Samuel Miles, came to Centre County and bought vast tracts of land and built the first iron furnace in Centre County. He died here in 1804.

He signed what was probably the first petition in the County asking the Pennsylvania Assembly for a protective tariff.

General Patton was a member of the Society of the Cincinnati.

When Tallyrand, the French diplomat, came to America, he had a letter to General Patton. He visited Centre County and was taken to the beautiful spring at Bellefonte and he exclaimed when he saw it "Bellefonte" from which the town received its name.

When General Patton died he was buried on his farm and no marker was ever placed on his grave. However, our D. A. R. Chapter had his name placed on the marker that was put in Branch Cemetery. General Patton was the ancestor of two of our Chapter members, Mrs. James I. Thompson and her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Stahle.

The first post office in Centre County was established in Milesburg in 1797. The nearest post office up to that time was at Northumberland. In 1798 post offices were established at Aaronsburg and Bellefonte.

HONORABLE ANDREW GREGG
(1755 - 1835)

Andrew Gregg was born near Carlisle. He received his early education there at Rev. John Steel's Latin School. While in Newark, Delaware, completing his education he was a tutor at the college in Philadelphia (as Linn's History says, now the university). In 1787 he married Martha Potter. At that time he moved to Lewistown which was then being laid out by Martha's father, Major General Potter, and Major Montgomery.

While he lived in Lewistown he was a member of the U. S. House of Representatives for some time and then an U. S. Senator. After his removal to Bellefonte in 1814, he was made the first president of the Centre Bank there. In 1820 he became Secretary of the Commonwealth.

In Linn's History his characteristics are summed up as follows:- "Mr. Gregg was an elegant classical scholar, and had acquired by reading extensive general information, which large experience and deep reflection had moulded into practical purposes. He was a man of sound health, athletic nerves and vigorous constitution, preserved intact by a life of temperance and industry until he reached the age of fourscore years.

GENERAL JOHN PHILIP de HAAS

General John Philip de Haas, with other Provincial officers, shared the land grants on the West Branch of the Susquehanna River, and for his services was allotted a tract of land containing eight hundred and nine acres on Bald Eagle Creek. He also purchased of his brother officers several tracts: Capt. William Piper's allottment of five hundred and fifty acres at the mouth of Beech Creek which he called "Henrietta" tract, named after his daughter; Capt. Conrad Bucher's tract of five hundred and seventy acres, which included the mouth of Beech Creek; Lieutenant James Foster's tract, two tracts west of Capt. Bucher's. His son Lieutenant John Philip de Haas moved from Philadelphia upon these lands in the last century.

His father, the General, made frequent visits to this land which was divided into farms and wood tracts. On the occasion of these visits the people of Bald Eagle Valley declared a holiday in honor this "Gentleman from Philadelphia" who came with "coach and four", outriders and all the grandeur of carriage, gold mounted harness and liveried drivers that money could purchase at that time.

Major de Haas became a Colonel during the Revolution and commanded the First Pennsylvania Battalion in Canada in 1776, to which his sons, the subject of his sketch, was appointed an Ensign by General Gates, August 6, 1776. John Philip, Jr. was a boy at school and did not join his regiment. He was appointed a second Lieutenant of the Second Pennsylvania of the Continental line, but probably did not join his regiment.

His father was promoted to the Brigadier General, but served a short time. He settled in Philadelphia and died there June 3, 1786.

General de Haas was the ancestor of Mrs. Fredrick Markle, one of our members.

COLONEL PHILIP BARNHART

The emigrant ancestor of Philip Barnhart came from Germany in 1738, took up land in Montgomery County, 35 miles from Philadelphia.

Two of his sons, Philip and Henry, both served in the Revolutionary War. Colonel Philip Barnhart was in the battle of Germantown, Brandywine and spent the winter at Valley Forge.

General Washington's army encamped upon the Barnhart farm during one of his campaigns. The soldiers burned and destroyed the fences. When complaints were made to General Washington he mounted his horse and rode around the encampment and stopped the distruction.

His wife during several battles was in one of the forts taking care of many wounded soldiers.

After the Revolution he came with his family to Boggs Township in Centre County on Bald Eagle Creek.

He is buried in Curtin Cemetery and his grave is marked every year by the capter.

COLONEL JOHN HOLT

Colonel John Holt's ancestor, Thomas Holt, was born in England, and fell in love with a peasant girl. If he married her he would have to leave England, which he did, coming to America, and we first learn of him in Lewistown, Pa. His wife was the first white woman to settle in that vicinity. Her name was Miss Dorcas. They were among the prominent people of Lewistown, one street of the town was named for her, Dorcas Street.

This Thomas Holt had one son, Thomas, who married Elizabeth Mitchell - 17 1 of Lewistown. They had several children. One son being Colonel John Holt, who was a Colonel in the Revolutionary War. He married Sara Milliken, and came to Centre County after the Revolution. He owned a great many acres of land between Milesburg and Curtin. He was called a land baron.

Linn's History says, "Colonel John Holt was a large man, and became a large land owner and very wealthy, living the life of a gentleman".

He is the ancestor of several of our members and is buried in the Milesburg Cemetery.

His two daughters married sons of Colonel Philip Barnhart, who lived on adjoining farms.

(This is a new marker placed by Civil War Veterans. The stone is placed near the fence about halfway between the two entrances).

JOHN COHEEN

On April 25, 1931, the Bellefonte Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, unveiled a monument at Rock Spring, Centre County, Penna., for JOHN COHEEN, a Revolutionary soldier, who was buried on his farm up in the mountain. This monument was placed by his ancestor near the highway. At least twelve descendants are members of D. A. R.

Dr. Lucretia Van Tuyl Simmon, Regent, opened the ceremonies. The reveille was sounded by John Culp of the military band. Rev. Thompson offered prayer and the monument was unveiled by James Campbell and Gerald Borland, two descendants who were in military uniform. These descendants who are members of D. A. R. sang "Faith of Our Fathers Living Still". Robert Coheen a descendant spoke and exhibited the muzzle loading musket that his forebear had used during the Revolution.

John McWilliams, another descendant, of Pittsburgh, Penna., gave a history of John Coheen, who had been born in Wales. Coming to this country just before the Revolution, he settled in Philadelphia County and joined the continental army from there and after the war was over he was given three hundred acres of bounty land in Westmoreland County. This land he exchanged for the farm at the head waters of Spruce Creek where he lived all his life and was buried on the mountain on this farm. He was married to Mary Jacobs of Philadelphia.

Dr. W. F. Dunaway, Professor of History at The Pennsylvania State College, then gave an address on Historical Men of Centre County. Following the address taps were sounded and the ceremony was ended.

JOHN BORLAND - JOHN GLENN - GEORGE MEEK

On April 25, 1931, the Bellefonte Chapter Daughters of American Revolution, dedicated a monument for John Borland, John Glenn and George Meek, Revolutionary Soldiers buried in a mountain cemetery. This monument was placed along the Highway and was unveiled by two descendants, James Campbell and Gerald Borland. Mrs. Hunt, Regent of Renovo Chapter, then read an interesting paper about John Borland and John Glenn, of whom she was a descendant, and this was followed by a paper read by Mr. George Meek of Bellefonte concerning his ancestor, George Meek. Dr. W. S. Dye of The Pennsylvania State College, delivered an address about the value to us of our nearness with historical shrines. The ceremonies ended with the sounding of tap.

Chapter D. A. R.

On Flag Day, June 15, 1931, the members and interested friends of Bellefonte Chapter D. A. R., assembled in the Spring Creek (Branch) Cemetery to dedicate a monument erected by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and Bellefonte Chapter Daughters of American Revolution as a memorial to Col. John Patton, Capt. David Whitehill, and Privates, John Barron, Eleazer Evans and Robert Moore, Revolutionary Soldiers buried in or near this Cemetery. Mrs. John G. Love, Regent of Bellefonte Chapter, in welcoming all to the ceremony said that it was fitting that we who enjoy the privilege of living in the United States of America should so commemorate the deeds of these men and their many comrades throughout the country.

Five veterans of the Civil War were present and the American Legion was represented also. Bugle call was sounded by Harold Breon, Boy Scout, and prayer was offered by Prof. J. H. Frizzell. Afterwards salute to the flag was given and the monument was unveiled by the American Legion.

Mrs. Hilda Thompson, descendant of Col. Patton, gave a most interesting account of this remarkable man's life. He was a member of Gen. Washington's bodyguard, belonged to the first city troops of Philadelphia, and to the order of Cincinnati. In 1792 Col. Patton came to Centre County, Penna., where he built and opened Centre Furnace.

Then Mr. Walter Whitehill of Lemont gave the history of his ancestor, Capt. David Whitehill, who was the first white child to be born in Salisburg Township, Lancaster County. He came to Centre County in 1786 and donated the ground for this Cemetery.

Miss Olive Mitchell of Bellefonte, descendant of John Barron; Miss Anna Dale of Bellefonte, descendant of Eleazer Evans, and Mrs. James Hugg of Philipsburg, descendant of Robert Moore, gave brief descriptions of the service of their respective ancestors.

The Hon. John L. Holmes of State College gave a very able and instructive address. The ceremony was closed by a few words of thankful appreciation by the Regent and the sounding of "Taps".

WOLF'S CHAPEL CEMETERY, LOWER PENN'S VALLEY, CENTRE COUNTY, PA.

This is conceded to be the oldest burial ground in the County. It was also the seat of the first school house in the County. On December 15th, 1789, Jacob Stover donated seven acres of land for the erection of a school house and a house for the school master. This tract of land joins the cemetery, where already at that time the settlers met at a little house of worship for services on the Lord's day.

This is one of the most historic cemeteries in central Pennsylvania. In it lies a number of Revolutionary soldiers, who were also the earliest settlers in that part of the County. Many of the gravestones are made of limestone or sandstone, and the elements are speedily disintegrating these stones. This record is therefore made so that the names of these heroes of early days may be preserved for posterity. It is therefore a great pleasure to present this record for preservation in the State Archives.

Very respectfully,

J. J. Weaver, Pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church, Penbrook,
